

Introduction to OBE

This workshop was conducted on July 26, 2018. The brief report about workshop is following

The holistic approach to convert to convert student into a great person, based on desired outcomes and desired goals. Outcome based (ODE) is an theory that bases education around pre-defined goals.by the end of educational experience each student is expected to have achieved that goal. Classes, opportunities, assessment should all help students to achieve the specified outcomes. The role of faculty adapts into instructor, trainer, facilitator and mentor based on the outcomes targeted.

The instructor can hence recognize the diversity among students by using various teaching and assessment techniques. The focus on outcomes creates a clear expectation of what needs to be accomplished by the end of the course. Students will understand what is expected of them and teachers will know what they need to teach during the course. Clarity is important over years of schooling and when team teaching is involved. Each team member, or year in school, will have a clear understanding of what needs to be accomplished in each class, or at each level, allowing students to progress. Those designing and planning the curriculum are expected to work backwards once an outcome has been decided upon; they must determine what knowledge and skills will be required to reach the outcome.

Student involvement in the classroom is a key part of OBE. Students are expected to do their own learning, so that they gain a full understanding of the material. Increased student involvement allows students to feel responsible for their own learning, and they should learn more through this individual learning. Other aspects of involvement are parental and community, through developing curriculum, or making changes to it. OBE outcomes are meant to be decided upon within a school system, or at a local level. Parents and community members are asked to give input in order to uphold the standards of education within a community and to ensure that students will be prepared for life after school.
