

MUJ Measure the Sustainability Literacy of Students

Manipal University Jaipur (MUJ) takes various steps to promote sustainability education and awareness, though it doesn't appear to have a formalized, university-wide sustainability literacy assessment for all students. The university does, however, integrate sustainability topics within its academic curriculum, particularly in its engineering, environmental studies, and design courses. These courses cover essential topics such as climate change, alternative energy sources, and environmental impact assessments, fostering sustainability knowledge among students within relevant fields

Additionally, MUJ's Green Club and sustainable campus initiatives help raise awareness and engage students in hands-on sustainability practices. Through these programs, students participate in eco-friendly activities like waste management, water recycling, and biodiversity preservation. MUJ also incorporates practical sustainability measures on campus, such as using treated wastewater for landscaping and reducing energy use with solar power installations.

Tools used for Literacy measure:

1. Organized Quiz competition
2. Organized Design completion
3. Analysis of students' performance in the SDG aligned courses/programs
