

Tigress, 2 cubs found dead in Pench

Postmortem Reports Suggest Poisoning

Manka.Behl@timesgroup.com

Nagpur: In a big blow to tiger conservation, Pench Tiger Reserve (PTR), adjudged one of the best reserves in the country, has lost three tigers over the past two days. The postmortem reports suggest that a tigress and two of its four cubs died of poisoning, possibly after drinking from a poisoned water source or feeding on a poisoned carcass.

The deaths, which have taken the toll in Pench reserve to five this year, have exposed gross mismanagement by forest department, which allegedly did not take precautions while repairing a road in the prime tiger habitat.

Earlier this year, TOI reader Sandeep Singh clicked the tigress with its cubs (left) and its carcass along with two cubs found recently in MP

On Monday evening, the famous Baghin nullah tigress, which would be frequently sighted on the Turia gate route of Madhya Pradesh Pench, was found lying dead by some tourists. The 11 to 12-year-old tigress was known to be the matriarch of PTR, having delivered four litters here. The last litter had four cubs, which are around eight-months-old.

The bodies of two of these cubs, too, were found on Tuesday during a search operation. The carcass of a spotted deer was also found near the cubs.

MP field director Subhramanjan Sen confirmed to TOI that the tiger family and deer died due to the same poison.

Heard at ICHR event: Bharat mata ki jai, quotes from Vedas

Akshaya.Mukul@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: While the nation is still debating Bharat mata ki jai, the slogan officially made its way to the Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR) foundation day function on Tuesday that was addressed by RSS historian Satish Chandra Mittal. After the slogan rent the air, Vande Mataram, too, was sung.

The lecture by Mittal, author of 48 books and a co-petitioner along with Dinanath Batra against Wendy Doniger's 'Hindus: An Alternative History', was on interpreting 'The Indian National Move-

Interest on dormant PF a/cs to benefit 9cr people

The UPA government had stopped interest on inoperative accounts. Now, we have taken a pro-worker decision. The UPA which was claiming to be pro-worker, stopped the interest on inoperative accounts. Now, we have decided to credit interest in inoperative accounts. There will not be any inoperative accounts," Dattatreya said.

The decision will benefit over 9 crore such account holders having total deposit of around Rs 32,000 crore.

When asked about a proposal on enhancing proportion of incremental investments of the EPFO in government securities (G-Sec) from 50 per cent to 65 per cent, labour secretary Shankar Aggarwal said, "It has already been decided by the ministry of finance."

The secretary said the limit of 50 per cent was enhanced as they were getting good offers but unable to invest in such instruments as the limit had been exhausted.

"If we get higher returns in G-Secs then we should be allowed to invest more in these instruments," he said.

The board also gave in-principle approval to restructuring of the EPFO as recommended by a sub-committee.

"There will be Career Advancement Scheme for over 20,000 employees of EPFO," Dattatreya said.
